Program Description

More people earn their living in business than in any other field of endeavor. Regardless of their basic training--whether it be in design, social services, health fields, the arts or a vocational area--most persons seeking employment turn to private business. The profit or loss within a company can depend on good business "know-how." Even those who do not earn their living through business enterprise directly (such as lawyer, small business owner and government employee) usually find it necessary to know something about business operations. Hence, the importance of business administration can hardly be overemphasized.

Course of Study

1. Complete A.A. degree requirements as listed on back. Refer also to the Associate in Business – Direct Transfer Agreement (A.B.-D.T.A.) degree requirements.
2. Carefully check the foreign language requirements of the college to which you plan to transfer. If possible, complete these requirements while enrolled at the Community College.
3. Completion of recommended courses in a pre-major for transfer does not necessarily assure a student admission to a four-year institution or a specific program.
4. Suggested courses in your program of study that you should consider completing while in attendance at Community Colleges of Spokane.

College Transfer Information

While students attend college for a variety of reasons, most attend for the purpose of acquiring the knowledge and skills needed for entering a particular field of work, occupation or profession.

Because the first two years of college are frequently spent meeting general college or university requirements, many options are available to students who plan to complete their freshman and sophomore years at SCC or SFCC.

Students should always check the requirements of the four-year institution from which they intend to graduate. Careful planning is necessary, as transferability of specific courses or programs is determined solely by the college to which the student transfers. Transfer guides, available in counseling centers at SCC and SFCC, should be consulted by all students planning to transfer.

Students who have not made a decision regarding a transfer institution should follow the Community Colleges of Spokane requirements for the associate in arts degree. These requirements will satisfy most of the general course requirements for graduation from other institutions. Requirements for the associate in arts degree and a complete listing of courses available will be found in the college catalog.

Counseling Services

Educational, vocational and personal counseling services are available to all students through the counseling centers at SCC or SFCC. Students may obtain professional counseling services prior to registration to plan their program of study. In addition, faculty advisers are assigned to each student to provide further assistance during the year.
